Michigan's Deafened Day

By Charles L. Polinski

Two actual cases are known where a deaf person has been attacked by a bear. The first was in 1908, when a man named "Bert" was attacked by a bear while hunting. The second was in 1910, when a man named "John" was attacked by a bear while hunting. These are the only two cases known where a deaf person has been attacked by a bear.

The Real Issue . . .

What's the biggest issue in today's major union-management controversies? If you say wages, you're wrong, according to a lengthy article in the September 1 issue of Newsweek, written by Associate Editor Robert E. Cubbedge. The overriding issue, in negotiations or strikes which involve nearly 2 million workers, is featherbedding.

Featherbedding is a "fruit of work" rules, many of which are very old, and were geared to conditions that no longer exist. Of late, the country has heard a great deal about the problem on the railroads where, according to management, the waste runs to a whopping $500 million a year. But, as Mr. Cubbedge shows, it is also present in many other of the big and basic industries. In the past, industry has often accepted work rules of a featherbedding character, and settled with labor on labor's terms. But times seem to have changed, and drastically. As Mr. Cubbedge sees it, company after company has been "girding itself for the showdown battle. After a quarter-century of giving in to labor demands, American industry was showing labor that the boss is still really the boss." One intensely practical reason for that change of attitude is that the world is becoming an ever more competitive place in which to do business.

A typical attitude has been expressed by President Eisenhower of Standard Oil of Indiana: "The basic question is whether management or union is to determine how many people are to be employed and at what work." Another comes from President Johnson of the Illinois Central Railroad: "There is no desire on the part of management to rule with an iron hand . . . But featherbedding is wrong and destroys the fundamental principles by which a man makes his living."

The Newsweek article cites specific example after specific example of common featherbedding practices. In railroading, one prime source of trouble is an ancient rule establishing a 100 mile run on a freight train and a 100-to-150 mile run on a passenger train as a day's work. When that rule was written, train speeds were at below present levels—about 12½ miles an hour for freights and 20 for passenger trains. Result: A new passenger train makes a 91 mile run in 90 minutes. But the crew gets nearly a full day's pay.

Truckers, under Teamster rules, have a similar problem. A rule written 35 years ago, when both motor vehicles and highways were vastly inferior to those of today, limits the distance a truck may go in a day. The printing trades have their own variety of "make-work" rules. For instance, there is what is known as "bogus-type." Local advertising that comes ready for use in the form of mats or plates, must be reset on the emises. That setting is not used but the compositor paid for it, and it is destroyed—pure waste.

The construction industry is alive with featherbed practices. Mr. Cubbedge goes on. In many cities, by way of illustration, plumbers refuse to use pre-threaded pipes. And, in some instances, carpenters are not allowed to use power saws.

The theatre is a "make-work" paradise. Example from Mr. Cubbedge's article: "A one man show requires a minimum of four stagehands, though there may be scarcely work for one, and woe betide the stage worker who transgresses on a rival union's territory."

The unions want to keep the make-work rules. Management is determined the rules must be modernized in order to hold down costs, to meet increasingly tough domestic and foreign competition, and still earn a profit. Says Arthur V. Homer, President of Bethlehem Steel: "The future of any enterprise depends on adequate profits. The long-run interests of the company, of the employees, and of the union which represents them, cannot be separated."

Indications are, according to the final Literary Digest poll given out Wednesday night, that Landon will not only be given the majority popular vote in the nation, but also a large majority of the electoral vote.

The new Sinclair service stations, with Leo Schram as manager, has been taken over by Clyde Peterson. Due to ill health Mr. Schram had to give up the management of the station. The latter successfully operated the Sinclair station on the west side of the street for several years, and when the new station on the corner of US-27 and Ogden Street was completed the company engaged him as the manager, and was in charge until last Monday. Mr. Schram was taken ill a couple of weeks ago and decided that he would have to resign. Last Monday morning Clyde Peterson assumed the duties of manager. For several years he has been the head mechanic at the Alfred Hanson service station and is considered an expert auto mechanic.

We are still in the horse and buggy age when estimating man. Character tells, Americans prize it above all else. That is why Alf Landon is steadily winning their confidence and support. They like his frankness, his fairness, his common-sense way of meeting the issues of the day. He is no great actor; he indulges in no flighty words; makes no promises to bring people into green pastures or lead them beside still waters. He leaves that kind of talk to his opponent.

St. Mary's Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding last Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock when Miss Marguerite Bousley of Wyandotte became the bride of Mr. Clement J. Demick, also of Wyandotte. Rev. Fr. James Moloney officiated. Miss Bousley is a niece of Mrs. Paul Lovely and has many friends here who extend congratulations and best wishes.

Sam Smith received severe facial burns Monday evening when the front tire of the Grayling Laundry truck went flat, as he was driving on M-55 about 14 miles this side of West Branch. His mother, Mrs. Allen, and brother, Fred, who were with him, received slight cuts about the head. All were taken to West Branch hospital for treatment. Further examination and x-rays at Mercy Hospital proved there were no broken bones. Sam says that the truck turned over several times and he feels it is nothing less than a miracle that they survived. The truck was almost completely demolished.

Mr. and Mrs. D'Alton Griffith (Frances Corwin) of Saginaw, are happy over the birth of a daughter, Jacquelin Donald, at Saginaw General Hospital, on October 23.

Announcement has been made that a total of 111 men pledged fraternities at Michigan State college this fall, a drop of more than 50 per cent from last year. There were 241 pledged in a corresponding period of time in the fall of 1935. Robert Hill of Grayling pledged Delta Chi.

Mr. and Mrs. Esbern Olson celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Sunday entertaining members of their family, number 24, at dinner. Their son Nels was home from St. C. Lansing, for the day, and other guests from out-of-town included Mr. and Mrs. James Olson and daughters of Clare, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnson, Detroit, and Mrs. Lorne J. Douglas, Expanse, Sask.

Miss Goldie Cady spent the first of the week at Antrim, a guest of Kenneth Moore.

Miss Frances Michelson and Miss Connie McMillan, of Lansing, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Michelson at Lake Margrethe. Tuesday the Michelsons closed their summer home and returned to Mason.

Complimenting Mrs. George Lowe, 27 ladies were entertained Thursday evening by Mrs. Alice LaMotte. Bunco was enjoyed during the course of the evening, after which a delicious lunch was served. Mrs. Frank Rood held high score for Bunco, with Mrs. John LaMotte running a close second. Mrs. Lottie Tatro held low score. Mrs. Lowe was showered with many lovely gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beckman, John Cowell and Mrs. Laura Parker and daughter Eida, spent Sunday at Cadillac.

Nels Michelson of the N. Michelson Lumber Co. says that their company has concluded to subdivide a part of their property located at Houghton Lake, into lots suitable for resorters.

Following the accident that occurred two weeks ago, when Dr. S. N. Insley broke his arm while in the act of cranking his car, some of his friends concluded that the community could not afford to have him take any more chances by using his old car, and decided that they would make him a present of a new car. To say that the doctor was pleased with his new would be putting it mildly. It almost took him off his feet, and he hardly knew what to say, but managed to mumble that a fellow doesn't have to die in Grayling in order to be appreciated. It is a 1914 model Buick. (Note: a picture appears with the story).

On Wednesday evening of last week the Misses Hattie Gierke and Mola Sheehy entertained at the former's home in honor of Miss Frida Olson.

A sewing club consisting of nine members was organized at the home of Miss Anna Nelson on Wednesday evening last. They will be entertained by Miss Johanna Hanson tonight.

THIS TOWN IS MINE

I am everybody. I am everybody who lives in my town.

A town is made of many things but mostly a town is made of people. A town is made by people, mostly by the people who live there.

A town grows and prospers or it declines, because of many things. Sometimes because of things beyond the control of the people who live there. But more often because of the activities of these people—what they do and say about their town.

There are no finer people than the people who live in my town. I believe in them and I believe in my town.

This town is mine. To me it is the greatest town in the world. It deserves and will get the best I can give to make it so. It deserves and will get a good word from me always.

Children's Aid Society Faces Program Cutback

The Northwestern Michigan branch of the Children's Aid Society, faced up to the fact at a meeting of its board held Wednesday in Traverse City that it must either curtail its services to children or find a sound, realistic solution to its financial problem. The problem, which arises from the fact that case loads continue to increase and funds do not, is not expected to improve in the foreseeable future, according to Mr. Kenneth Thompson, board treasurer, who presented figures to emphasize the gravity of the situation.

Board members expressed the hope that curtailment of services would not be necessary and agreed that such an extreme measure must be considered only as a last resort. However, if necessary operating funds are not forthcoming the board feared it might have no alternative.

Chief source of the Society's income is Michigan United Fund. The local branch receives other funds from county boards of supervisors, from gifts (both solicited and unsolicited), and from its adoptive placement program. Its income for the past 12 months totaled $25,932. During the same 12 months it cost $33,054 to board, clothe, educate, and maintain the health of the children who came to the Society from this county and 14 surrounding counties. The deficit now stand at $7,122. Part of this will be covered by Mr. Thompson pointed out but the ever-increasing case load threatens to create further deficits, making it increasingly difficult to achieve a balance between income and outgo.

A breakdown of expenses presented by Mr. Thompson reveals that administrative costs have been held to the line, even though cases have been mushrooming in recent months.

A committee, appointed by president Buel Nave of Manistee, will explore the alternatives and report its findings and recommendations at the November meeting of the board. Serving on the committee will be Mr. Thompson, chairman, George Petritz and Mrs. Mark Osterlin.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

Girl Who Demands Respect Can Get It

By C. D. Smith

PROBLEM OF THE WEEK: "I am a young girl of 18. There is this certain boy I like very much. He's kind and considerate, generous, a lot of fun, and he has a good personality, although he's what you call an 'octopus.' If I should tell him that I like him, he would be so fresh on dates. He's all arms. But I have a way of handling him—so far, that is. I still have the tendency to tell him I do. Tell him I can't get out with him any more unless he changes his ways? Or, just say 'no' with a look on my face. I think too much of him to hurt his feelings. He's 19 and swell, but there's this one thing which puts him in the lower bracket. He respects me, but it doesn't look that way to you, does it? What can I do? How can I go about doing it?"

the boy and intends to go out with him again, she should tell him emphatically, at the start, that there will be no monkey-shines or making like an octopus. If the boy respects her, he will respect her. We have no doubt that the boy in question does have respect for the young lady. But we also know that he could love it very easily if she didn't tell him to straighten up and fly right when he began to get out of line. He has respect for her because she has shown that she has respect for herself, that she is a lady. When she ceases to act like one, he will lose that respect gradually, then completely.

In order to give a guy "the word," a lady doesn't have to shout and stamp her feet. If she speaks quietly, with determination, he will "get the message." If he doesn't read it loud and clear, he is no gentleman and should be sent—far, far away.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, write to: C. D. SMITH, Editor, CRAWFORD COUNTY AVA- LANCHE, FRANKFORT, KY.

PLAN STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

In MICHIGAN nearly every-day talks about the state's economic climate. And many are doing something about it.

Among the latest to announce they will work for a more favorable economic climate are 39 business and civic leaders who will meet in a "Roundtable" at the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

Articles of incorporation for the state chamber were filed with the Michigan Corporation and Securities Commission early in October.

Diversified forces are being mustered to promote Michigan economic development.

The Republican-controlled Legislature has created special committees to study the state economy.

Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams has appointed 200 Industrial Ambassadors, a special Committee On Michigan's Economic Future and a commission to promote the Department of Economic Development.

A non-partisan Citizens for Michigan movement has been started by American Motors President George Romney.

Crawford County Avalancho Thursday, October 29, 1959

And both political parties are preparing for a 1960 repeat of the arguments about economic climate sounded during the 1958 campaigns.

No conflict should be presented by these efforts and those of a central organization to coordinate all activities geared to advance the general prosperity of Michigan.

Behind the new organization is the belief that businessmen should take a more active interest in government.

Founders of the state chamber are Robert P. Briggs, executive vice president of Consumers Power Co.; Thomas R. Reid, civic and governmental affairs manager for Ford Motor Co., and Arthur H. Sarvis, United Finance Corp., Flint.

Eleven of the steering committee members are from the Detroit area. They are S. D. DenUyl, William Day, E. O. George, W. B. Hurley, K. G. Taylor, George Russell, E. H. Rydholm, Harvey J. Campbell, Richard L. Chapman, Walker L. Ciesler and Reid.

Outstate members are Briggs,

Sarvis, Vincent Fichtman, Traverse City; Edward J. Frey, Grand Rapids; W. T. Gillespie, Midland; Edgar W. Harden, Marquette; Max P. Heavenrich, Saginaw; Creighton D. Holden, St. Clair; Paul C. Johnson, Muskegon; Kermit Krum, Battle Creek; William D. McIntyre, Monroe; Stephen St. Nisbet, Fremont; Walter D. O'Leary, Lansing; Travis W. O'Leary, Jackson; Donald J. Porter, Grand Rapids; B. W. Reeve, Iron Mountain; Dr. George W. Slagle, Battle Creek; John H. Warden, Houghton; W. R. Boris, Jackson; Rex Potter, Battle Creek; Gerald L. Johnson, Marquette; T. G. Cordell, Port Huron; A. C. Boyd, Lansing; J. T. Hay, Muskegon; R. H. Albert, Saginaw; John A. Chapman, Benton Harbor; W. F. Doyle, Lansing, and William Palmer, Lansing.

MICHIGAN'S NEWSPAPERS, representing the strongest combined force promoting the state's economic development, joined forces for celebration of National Newspaper Week, which ended October 21.

A compilation of figures based on the 1959 Michigan Newspaper Directory and Yearbook, published by the Michigan Press Association, shows total circulation of Michigan newspapers in 1958 was 3,181,528 — highest on record.

Michigan's 56 daily newspapers had a total circulation of 2,380,618 and the 302 weeklies had a circulation of 800,910.

CONSIDERABLE FANFARE about alleged abuse of patients was in the air last January when Governor Williams appointed the Mental Health Inquiry Board. It was asked to determine whether patients were receiving humane care and treatment and to review administrative practices.

The blue ribbon board has finished its report on the first phase of its investigation. It gave mental hospitals a relatively clean bill of health on the question of patient care.

Existing policies promote humane care, according to the board's report. Infrequent cases of abuse were reported to have received prompt disciplinary action.

Changes are expected, however, in operation of the Mental Health Department as a result of the investigation.

A uniform system of reporting cases of abuse and mistreatment probably will be worked out by the department.

The department also is expected to establish better communications with relatives of patients. Hospital officials have been too tight-lipped, the board said. In some cases, relatives learned of accidents and injuries from policemen and newspapers.

A SHOWER OF DOLLARS has preceded this season's snowfall.

Forty-three of the state's 83 counties will receive snow money funds this winter compared to only 22 last year.

REASON: There was a near record snowfall last winter.

The State Highway Department will pay out $548,652 this year on a formula based on how much snow fell in the various counties last winter.
